GCAS serves as the preferred provider of assurance and related services for the Seventh-day Adventist Church as stated in the General Conference Working Policy (GCWP). Yet during a global pandemic when travel is severely restricted and client organizations are struggling with various levels of lock-down, how does GCAS deliver on our promise of providing excellent service? This report is a testimony to strong foundations, dedicated professionals, and answered prayers.

As GCAS transitioned through staff turnover, leadership changes, and pandemic challenges in 2021, we praise God for His guidance. The promise from James 1:5 (If you need wisdom, ask our generous God, and he will give it to you) was a daily companion.

An example of God’s guidance was our previous adoption of an audit platform that allowed audit teams in separate locations to work on audits together. This enabled our auditors and support staff to work from their homes in remote locations while offices were closed, and travel was limited. Audits continued for client organizations who could provide their documentation electronically through our secure portals. Some audits were delayed due to limitations on treasury staff because of lockdowns or limitations in their programs, and we appreciate the effort made to provide information. In other situations, audits were not possible because the clients’ accounting systems and technology structure could not accommodate a remote audit.

As the pandemic conditions improved, GCAS transitioned to a more hybrid audit approach. This allowed for a smaller audit team at the client site, with additional support provided remotely. In addition to reduced strain on treasury personnel caused by an entirely remote audit, it also reduced travel costs.

The challenges of 2021 also presented opportunities. We recognized the need to improve our processes and enhance transparency within GCAS, so we implemented a new workflow platform. This helped us improve by identifying bottlenecks and inefficiencies. We were able to apply knowledge drawn from auditors’ experience in meeting client needs in various areas of the world. Additionally, GCAS implemented a new client portal with additional security measures to combat ever-increasing cyber security risks and comply with global security and privacy regulations.

No matter how good the audit tools, they have limited value without the talented group of professionals who support the mission of the Adventist Church. This includes our leadership team, auditors, administrative support personnel, and information technology staff. Working from home during a pandemic introduced additional challenges for our employees who juggled multiple roles, tried to balance personal and professional lives, dealt with isolation, and limited workspace or equipment. Last fall, GCAS approved a chaplaincy program to help support our staff in difficult times. We also held multiple virtual training sessions and professional development seminars.

While much was accomplished during 2021, it was not possible to deliver audit reports for all organizations. No matter how good the audit tools, they have limited value without the talented group of professionals who support the mission of the Adventist Church. This includes our leadership team, auditors, administrative support personnel, and information technology staff. Working from home during a pandemic introduced additional challenges for our employees who juggled multiple roles, tried to balance personal and professional lives, dealt with isolation, and limited workspace or equipment. Last fall, GCAS approved a chaplaincy program to help support our staff in difficult times. We also held multiple virtual training sessions and professional development seminars.

To address this challenge, we have three areas of focus:

- Our first focus is to find and retain excellent personnel. In late 2021, we began recruiting new and experienced professionals to increase our capacity to serve the Adventist church. Recruiting qualified and experienced Adventist professionals in a tight labor market is challenging given the constraints of the denominational remuneration scale. In addition, we are working with Adventist universities to recruit recent graduates. Our internship program is an investment in the future enabling us to cultivate future church financial leaders, not just for GCAS but for all levels of the church.

- Our second focus is to continue evaluating the best tools and processes to ensure efficient audits. Performing remote and/or hybrid audits saves time and money. This approach will prove successful with clients who make a similar investment in their accounting infrastructure allowing secure access to documents and accounting records. A new tool GCAS is evaluating is the use of data analytics and artificial intelligence to effectively analyze large amounts of data, improve audit quality, and deliver valuable insights to client organizations.

- Finally, our third focus is to evaluate how to expand services beyond what we currently offer to better meet the needs of Adventist organizations, fulfill the mandate of the GCWP, and accomplish our mission each year. These additional services could include engagements providing lower levels of assurance, consultation engagements, and other special engagements. We will continue to work with our clients and their stakeholders to best meet their needs, identify and address potential risks, and minimize audit costs.
Our Responsibility (Portfolio)

Total Clients: 1,061
The GCAS portfolio includes the client base of all denominational organizations such as GC institutions, world divisions and their institutions, unions/organizations of churches/conferences/missions/fields/regions/mission stations and their institutions, education institutions at the secondary level or higher, and Adventist Development and Relief Agency country offices and projects not audited by external auditors.

The GCAS annual workplan is a subset of the GCAS portfolio. The annual workplan are those engagements for which GCAS has the staffing and commits to complete within a given year. This group of engagements is determined each year by GCAS Leadership in consultation with division officers and in accordance with the priorities set by GC Working Policy.
Types of Auditor’s Reports

- Standard
  The auditor concludes that the overall financial statements are fairly presented.

- Qualified
  The auditor concludes that the overall financial statements are fairly stated except:
  - they contain a misstatement that is not pervasive, or
  - the auditor is unable to obtain sufficient audit evidence to determine whether there may be a material misstatement, but confident that any potential misstatement is not pervasive.

- Adverse
  The auditor concludes that the financial statements are materially and pervasively misstated.

- Disclaimed
  The auditor declines from rendering an opinion on the financial statements because auditor is unable to obtain sufficient audit evidence and potential misstatements could be both material and pervasive.

---

Reporting Highlights

Most frequent reasons for providing a modified report on financial statements:
- Significant lack of evidence resulting in a disclaimer
- Misstatement of accounts receivable
- Lack of evidence for accounts receivable
- Lack of evidence for property, plant and equipment
- Lack of evidence for inventory

Most frequent reasons for documenting internal control weaknesses:
- Inadequate review/approval of journal vouchers and/or financial statements
- Inadequate monitoring of operating effectiveness of controls
- Uncollectable accounts receivable, evaluation of allowance not completed
- No fraud risk assessment performed
- Reconciliation of accounts not consistently performed

Auditing

Quality Management
In December of 2020, the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board (IAASB) issued new standards related to quality management for organizations that perform audits or other assurance related services. International Standard on Quality Management (ISQM) 1 sets the standard for organization’s internal system that provides reasonable assurance that the entity and its personnel fulfill their responsibilities in accordance with professional standards, and applicable legal and regulatory requirements. The eight components of quality management are, the entity’s risk assessment process, governance and leadership, relevant ethical requirements, acceptance and continuance of client relationships and specific engagements, engagement performance, resources, information and communication, and the monitoring and remediation process. ISQM 2 sets the standard for organization’s own engagement quality reviews. Both ISQM 1 and ISQM 2 are effective for audits beginning on or after December 15, 2022.

Denominational

Financial Reporting Framework
The denomination’s Financial Reporting Framework Committee has been meeting to update the supplemental guidance to international accounting standards for implementation by church related organizations. The committee is focusing first on redesigning the Seventh-Day Adventist Accounting Manual to be more dynamic in its response to changing accounting standards and publishing a multi-volume format tailored for user needs.

Working Capital and Liquidity
The Financial Reporting Framework Committee suggested amendments to the General Conference Working Policy which were adopted by the Annual Council of the Executive Committee that created a new formula for determining the recommended minimum amounts of working capital and liquidity. The previous policy focused mainly on sufficient working capital and liquidity for operations, and had multiple different calculations for different types of entities. The new policy while considering operations, focuses more on preparedness for unforeseen emergencies, and a single simple calculation that is easy to understand and apply, yielding a number of months of available working capital and the number of months of liquidity. This new policy is being implemented for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2022.

Financial Oversight
The denomination is developing an additional level of financial oversight to supplement financial audits, financial reviews, and local church audits. This new level of financial oversight will be referred to as a financial “inspection” and is expected to include a report with recommendations. This level of service is intended to be suitable for smaller and less complex organizations for which a higher level of service would be out of scale with the associated risks.
